Press Release

Date: 01 November 2012

After successful organization of "10 Days of Peace Activism in Afghanistan", CPD would like to initiate the "Caravan of Change" 19 days activism (1-19 November 2012) focused on prevention of abuse and violence against children and youth in coordination with the global organizer, WWSF (Women's World Summit Foundation). CPD and partners have planned variety of activities for this initiative in Afghanistan.

Cooperation for Peace and Development (CPD) is a nonprofit Non-Governmental organization aimed at bringing positive changes in perception and behavior of Afghans as the key to ensure Peace and Development through identified intervention strategies of the organization including advocacy, capacity building, research, engagement with traditional and modern media and service delivery. CPD is a bridge between marginalized Afghan people (especially women, youth, children and the disabled) and decision makers including government, parliament and other concerned parties. All the CPD's activities are based on Afghanistan constitution and other national and international laws and conventions.
